THREE McMAHON BROTHERS, CIRCUS MEN FROM MANCHESTER, MICHIGAN

Research by Margaret L. Sias

On the 23rd of July 1985 in Delevan, Wisconsin, was celebrated the centennial of the organization of the Holland & McMahon Circus. A centennium commemoration service was held at the graves of Joseph B. McMahon and George and Mary Ann (Holland) Madden. July 18, 1985, the Delevan Enterprise published a twelve page tabloid which detailed the brief existence of that circus formed by John S. McMahon and George and Kate Holland. Much of the history for this account was researched and written up by Joe Yadon of Delevan.

In 1885 John McMahon and the Hollands had just finished a circus season performing with the Burr & Robbins Circus as part of the equestrian team and were busy starting a circus of their own which would play in southern river cities during a twelve week winter season. Performing with the new circus in 1885 was John's younger brother, stellar equestrian and boxer, Charles Henry McMahon. Their brother Joseph became manager. Joe had spent several years at the University of Michigan studying law. These McMahons were the sons of Patrick and Ellen (Shannon) McMahon who had arrived in the Ann Arbor, Michigan, area in the early 1850s.

Patrick had received a federal patent 5 July 1859 on forty acres north of Ann Arbor, just beyond the Haas/Hartman/Forshee hill on Pontiac Road, the north half of the south half of the north-west quarter of Section 16, in part since 1922 owned by the McAuliffe family. These McMahon children attended the Keppler/Hagen School. Then for awhile they attended school in Ann Arbor. Late in the 1860s Patrick McMahon purchased the north-east quarter of the south-east quarter of Section 34 in Sharon Township, Washtenaw County, on Sharon Valley Road. From there the McMahon children went to school in Manchester.

These eighty acres were sold by the administrator of Patrick's estate on 13 January 1894 to Henry L. Renau. By then only their children Patrick and Mary Ann were of the Manchester area; oldest son Michael was in Oregon.

The Holland & McMahon Circus had two very successful seasons in spite of several disasters. The partnership was dissolved early in 1888. John then formed his own circus which for the next five years played mostly in the west. He contacted tuberculosis and was aboard one of his Pullman cars when he died in 1892. He was taking his circus from Portland, Oregon, to Chicago where he intended to sell out. Both John and Charles were outstanding performers. John had performed also with P.T. Barnum, Adam Forepaugh, Pogey O'Brien, and Cole & Sells, before joining the Burr & Robbins Circus.

When? Where? How did a Sharon farm boy happen to choose a life in a circus and in which circus was his initial employment? So far, now, 1990, nothing has been found on that phase of his life. It is definite that Phineas Taylor Barnum had close Taylor relatives in the Manchester area. Also that an advance man of Barnum's had Kellogg relatives at Lima Center, Washtenaw County. The details, however, of John's interest in circus life, remain elusive.

Charles Henry, the youngest of the family, was exceptionally strong and athletic, considered outstanding in part due to his double somersault over a herd of elephants. Both he and his brother John were good pugilists. Charles developed pneumonia in Texas. There he was "packed in ice" and shipped by train to Chicago where he died.

Joseph had for several years his own circus which used several names including Hawes & Cushing in 1894 and Sands & Astley in 1895. It became the Joe McMahon Circus again in 1896-97 and was wintered at Wichita, Kansas. Joseph was shot by Cunningham, a Texas law man, in Wichita's Manhattan Hotel in 1897 when he intervened in behalf of one of his employees.

As far as has been determined, of Patrick's family only Joe had children. There is question as to the identity of minor Lulu Hayman McMahon who received $700 on 22 March 1897 from John's estate. Only John's living brothers and sister Mary had been named his heirs.

Michael James McMahon, the oldest son of Patrick, from 1873-75 attended the University of Michigan and then taught Greek and Latin at a high school in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for five years. He translated Biedef's Demosthenes from Greek and lectured on this work. Next he spent five years in Europe, mostly in Paris, where he studied at the Sorbonne and studied architecture in Greece and Rome. He also taught English literature at the University of France. Upon his return to the States he went to San Francisco where he soon accumulated $19,000 in a mining venture with an uncle who was owner of Golden Gate placer claim in Plumas County. This he invested in real estate in Portland, Oregon. He was a professor at Tualatin Academy in Forest Grove, Oregon, and was in 1882 admitted to the bar in Oregon. He lived at 1434 Benton Street, Portland, for forty-two years and died there at age eight-two in 1934; is said to have been married. He apparently was very proud of his three brothers' circus activities. Hopefully they were equally proud of his accomplishments.

The Family of Patrick J. McMahon and Ellen Shannon

Patrick J. McMahon was born in 1820 in County Clare, Ireland, and came to America in 1840. In 1848 in Bangor, Maine, he married Ellen Shannon, daughter of John and Elizabeth Shannon, born in 1828 in County Clare. In the early 1850s they came to the Ann Arbor area, later residing in Sharon Township. Both died in Sharon, but are buried in St. Thomas Cemetery, Ann Arbor, Michigan. Ellen died 7 September 1884, age 56, and Patrick died 1 February 1892.

Children of Patrick and Ellen:

i Michael James McMahon [used MacMahon] b. 12 January 1852, d. 8 April 1934, Portland, Oregon.

ii John S. McMahon, b. 22 September 1853, d. 17 November 1892, Helena, Montana. Buried St. Thomas Cemetery, Ann Arbor.

iii Patrick M. McMahon, b. 22 July 1855. Went west about 1900. Nothing further is known.

iv Thomas McMahon, b. 5 June 1857, probably Ann Arbor area, d. 1858. Buried St. Thomas Cemetery, Ann Arbor.

v Mary Ann McMahon, b. 3 Nov 1858, probably Ann Arbor area, d. 1925. Resided Chicago, Illinois.

vi Joseph Byron McMahon, b. 27 March 1862, Ann Arbor, d. 2 April 1897, Wichita, Kansas. Buried Spring Grove Cemetery, Delevan, Wisconsin. M. 25 October 1887 Leonora "Nora" Madden, b. ca. 1867, d. 23 March 1943, Decatur, Illinois. Buried Mt. Hope, Urbana, Illinois. Nora was the daughter of clown George Madden and wife Ann Holland. Ann Holland was the sister of George and Ed Holland, both circus people. Children of Joseph and Nora McMahon: Lulu Hayman (probable), living 22 March 1897, an heir to the estate of John McMahon; Charles b. November 1896, living San Antonio, Texas, 1962; Joseph Byron, Jr., b. ca. 1897, d. before 1962.

vii Charles Henry McMahon, b. ca. 1866, d. after 17 February 1894 and before 1 February 1897, Chicago. Said to be buried in Ann Arbor. No evidence found to date.

No siblings of Patrick J. McMahon have been identified. However, a Mary McMahon and husband Thomas Prendergast were godparents to John at his baptism 24 Jan 1855. A Martin McMahon had a claim in 1893 against Patrick's estate. There were other McMahons residing both in the Ann Arbor vicinity and west of Manchester in the late 1800s to whom they may have been related.

In 1927 Michael McMahon was quoted by Fred Lockley in the Portland press as saying that he was named for an uncle who owned the Plumas County, California, Golden Gate placer mine. A McMahon or Shannon? This uncle had arrived on the west coast in 1850 and was captain of an English sailing ship. Michael consistently spelled his name MacMahon. He was quoted by Lockley as saying "three MacMahon brothers who were active in fighting for Ireland's freedom were banished; one to Van Dieman's land, one to France, one to America. I am the last of the American branch." While he did not claim a relationship to Marie Edme Patrice Maurice de MacMahon (1808-1893), he had his picture on his wall and discussed Patrice's life at great length. Patrice was president of France from 20 Nov 1873 until he resigned 28 Jan 1879. Patrice was a descendant of an Irish Jacobite and was born Sully, France.

Michael also stated to Lockley that his father, Patrick, had mortgaged his lands in 1867 to go to Paris with John O'Leary to join James Stephens with the idea of freeing Ireland from English rule. Stephens was a recent escapee from prison in Dublin. Washtenaw County land records do verify that Patrick took out mortgages of $1.200.00 and $200.00 on his Ann Arbor Township land in 1867.

Obviously, for someone so inclined, there is still much to be researched on this former Washtenaw County family. The basis for the start of this research was found in papers gathered in 1929 by Cora L. Haas in preparation for the 70th anniversary of the opening of the Keppler/Hagen School.

CHARTER MEMBERS OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF YPSILANTI, MICHIGAN

On the occasion of its 80th year, a handsome historical booklet was prepared by Frederick B. McKay for the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti, a copy of which is now in the library of the Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County. The extensive essays on the background of Congregationalism and the history of Michigan Congregationalism provide an understanding of the "congenial and mutual cooperation" between Presbyterians and Congregationalists during the pioneer period in Ypsilanti. It was not until 1881 that a separation occurred and the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti was organized. The Ypsilanti Commercial on October 8 gave a glowing account of the formal organizational ceremonies which took place on Tuesday evening, October 4, in the Opera House. and at which time "sixty persons presented themselves for membership." No clerk's record has been found for the first five years. Charter members listed in McKay's booklet are found in an 1886 booklet entitled "Manual of the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti, Michigan."
